

ANTI-BRIBERY & CORRUPTION

Course Number
VEL0253

Time Required
50 minutes

Assessment
Formal (multiple choice)

Approvals
CPD

Acts of bribery and corrupt business practices are still an all too common part of business to business activity in the UK and Worldwide. Inducements can range from small 'facilitation payments' to gifts worth millions of pounds. They can come in many different forms and can sometimes be hard to track down.

This online Anti-Bribery and Corruption e-learning course examines some of the reasons why bribery and corruption occur as well as providing an overview of how common these practices are believed to be, before discussing how normal business activities, such as gifts, hospitality, sponsorship and donations, can be manipulated to become bribes.

Recommended System Requirements

- Browser: Up to date web browser
- Video: Up to date video drivers
- Memory: 1Gb+ RAM
- Download Speed: Broadband (3Mb+)

The online Anti-Bribery and Corruption course covers the legislation that is in place both in the UK and Internationally and the severe penalties that can be brought against someone found to be acting a corrupt way. The Anti-Bribery and Corruption E-Learning course also looks at the effects of bribery at a national level, including corruption in state-owned enterprises and governments, worldwide.

Finally, on a more practical level, the Anti-Bribery and Corruption course will show you some of the ways management and employees can reduce the risk of bribery and corruption in their organisations, particularly through anti-bribery and anti-corruption policies.

Suitable for:
Care, Education and Commercial

Modules:

- Introduction
- Why Corruption and Bribery Occur
- The UK Bribery Act 2010
- Reducing the Risk: Management
- ISO 37001 and Employee Responsibilities